

NORTH AMERICAN MEAT PROCESSORS ASSOCIATION

Management Conference on Track to Set Record Attendance You Can Still Register

Next week's Meat Industry Management Conference presented by NAMP is on track to set a recent attendance record. Registrations are still coming in at NAMP headquarters. Be sure to register now if you have not done so already. On line registration, a pdf brochure and forms are on NAMP's Web site at www.namp.com. Call The Drake right now to make your room reservation: 312.787.2200. Ask for the NAMP discount rate.

Don't miss the powerhouse general session on food safety Friday morning, featuring Dr. Dan Engeljohn of the FSIS Policy Office, CFIA's Dr. Richard Arsenault, NAMP Senior Science Advisor Dr. Jim Marsden, and Shaw Stevens, an attorney who defends and counsels numerous meat packers and processors throughout the United States on food-borne illness matters.

Time is running out if your company wants a table at Friday night's Showcase. So far, more than 30 companies will feature their products and services at the event. Don't be left out. Contact Sabrina Moore at smoore@namp.com or call her at 703.758.1900 for details.

NAMP thanks this year's sponsors for their support of the Meat Industry Management Conference and the Annual Outlook Conference. Take a moment to check out what they can do your company on the back pages of this issue of NewsLine. Call them whenever you need advice on the products or services they offer. Contact NAMP Executive Director Phil Kimball at pkimball@namp.com or call 703.758.1900 if you want to be a sponsor, too. Affordable customized packages are available.